FERNALD WELL SATISFIED.

SUPPORT BEING PLEDGED FROM ALL OVER THE STATE.

Has Kept Consistently Out of Second District Contest and Is Confident That He Will Win at Bangor—Believes in Bettering Good.

(Special to MAINE WOODSMAN.)

WEST POLAND, MAINE, April 29, 1908.

Hon. Bert M. Fernald asked in relation to his canvass replied: "I am well satisfied with the result of my canvass, and believe now, as I always have, that it would be approved by the people, and I am sure that I shall win at the convention in Bangor."

"Recently my mail has been very heavy with letters from Republicans pledging me their loyal support. In many instances these letters come from men whom I wrote over three months ago, and who now write me that they have decided to stand by me to the finish. I consider this to be significant, because it shows that these gentlemen have exercised great care before writing, and have taken their stand after learning the prevailing sentiment in their respective towns."

"I have myself," continued Mr. Fernald, "kept consistently out of the Second District contest. I know that many of my good friends and earnest workers are for each of the candidates. I have never expressed a single request to any of them in regard to where their affiliations might lie. I have never said a word to any human being, expressing a desire that any of my friends intrude upon this Congressional canvass. The public, which has never had any cause, I am sure, to doubt my word, will believe what I say when I assert that I neither suggest, authorize or condone any use of my canvass to defeat the untrammelled vote of the people for their choice for congressman in the second district."

"I am a believer in the Roosevelt-Taft theories of bettering the good. Republicanism means progress; it means better and better things. If I have a purpose in my heart as a candidate for Governor it is to give all in my power during the next two years of my life to the welfare of this state. I truly believe that I can do some good in that office. I believe that no man would have cause to complain that I did not seek therein to do exact justice to all. I do hold, however, that there are things to do for Maine, and I believe they should be done with a singleness of purpose and honesty of mind and in a spirit of loyalty to the best traditions of that type of Republicanism for which Mr. Roosevelt has stood all these years, and in which Mr. Taft will be nominated at Chicago. If any man finds fault with that kind of Republicanism I want to have a chance to talk with him."

ISAAC RUSSELL DEAD.

Sudden Demise of One of Farmington's Leading Citizens.

FARMINGTON, ME., April 29, 1908.

Expressing a desire to visit the factory where his interests had centered for the past 16 years and from which illness for the past year had prevented his active participation as a partner, Isaac B. Russell, member of the firm of Russell Bros. & Estes Co., extensive wood turners of this place, on being driven thither by his friend, Silas Perham, about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, expired suddenly on the threshold of the door leading to the enameling room where he had been superintendent for so many years.

Dr. Linscott was at once summoned but death had come instantly it is thought. Coroner Adams was notified but deemed an autopsy unnecessary and a certificate of death due to heart failure was made out.

Isaac B. Russell was one of four brothers, Dr. Frank who died some years ago, Hannibal and James, both of Farmington, who have been identified since its start 16 years ago of the wood turning factory here which has been one of the most successful of its kind in Maine and which, since its incorporation, has been known as Russell Bros. & Estes Co. Until nearly two years ago Mr. Russell was active about the mill but from that period has been a sufferer and has not been actively engaged in business. Recently his health has been very poorly and his insistence that he go to the mill and revisit the scene of his former activity brought on that excitement it is thought which his delicate state of health could not withstand. Mr. Russell was in his 68th year. He was twice married and is survived by a widow.

Liquor Agency Burglarized.

On Friday night of last week the Phillips liquor agency was broken open and $25 to $40 in cash was stolen from the money drawer. Entrance to the agency was gained by breaking a 13 1-2x26 pane of glass, after which the window was raised to let the person or persons in. It is not known whether or not any liquors were taken as they are all in barrels and it is hard to determine.

STRATTON, WONDER OF DEAD RIVER.

Her Rapid Growth Causes Eustis, the Parent Town, to Forget Her Own Disastrous Fire.

Busy, Hustling Center of Big Fish and Game Region Has Arisen Within Ten Years As Important Manufacturing and Trading Community Which Hopes to Soon See Sandy River & Rangeley Lakes Railroad Enter Village From Greene's Farm—Rebuilding of Eustis—Sketches of Leading Men.

Stratton, town of Eustis, in the famous fish and game Dead River region, far in the great woods of Franklin county, nestling beneath the mighty shadow of Mount Bigelow which rises to a height of 3800 feet, is one of the wonder villages of Maine which sprang direction. There are Big Island and Chain of Ponds, King and Bartlett, the great Megantic preserves on the Canadian line, Tim and Jim and T ponds Blakeslee lake, Spring lake, Flagstaff pond, Round Mountain lake etc; all fine fishing places, while deer abound all and to encourage his soldiers informed them that he could see the walls of Quebec from that lofty perch. The army encamped for a time at Flagstaff and there are many localities and streams named after Arnold in this region.

Owing to the building of the Sandy River & Rangeley Lakes railroad and its extensions towards the Dead River region it has greatly prospered for it abounds in ponds, lakes and streams that teem with trout, salmon, pickerel and other gamy fishes and in season affords the hunter great attractions as proven by the game reports, and now the residents are hoping that the road will still extend and allow the operation of the hard wood as well as increase the lumbering in general. Besides, Stratton feels that that five miles which would connect her directly with the outside world should be built right away and are agitating the subject.

Stratton Manufacturing Co.

The industry responsible for the rapid growth and prosperity of Stratton is the Stratton Manufacturing Co., a corporation composed of local men which has proven a great success from its incorporation Sept. 7, 1901 with $50,000 capital. From the first the company began the up building of the village and today, the plant is the bulwark of the prosperity. The original plant was really started in New Vineyard in 1830 by the late Eugene E. McLain who in 1901 moved his machinery here and installed it in the present factory which arose through the efforts of the following: Charles Green, Orrin Taylor, L. D. Grose, H. H. Landers, Allen, R. W., B. E., and O. Blanchard, Eugene E.

STRATTON MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

out of the wilderness within ten years and promises to become in the near future a larger and greater community. Already she has a large and prosperous wood turning plant in the Stratton Mfg. Co., which is largely responsible for her present development as the business center of the section, with electric lights, city water, scores of modern houses, good schools, a fine hotel and what is still better a large group of active, young business men intent upon advancing the interests of the village and town.

Stratton hopes soon to see the Sandy River & Rangeley Lakes railroad fulfill the plan of extending their line to the village from Green's Farm, a distance of five miles, and with this extension would come the transportation of the great wealth of manufactured hardwood to market. This is one of the best lumbering sections of Maine and this year about thirty million feet will go down the Dead River waters.

Noted also for its fine farms and farming land, its smooth roads, its glorious mountain scenery unsurpassed in Maine, its streams, ponds and forests filled with fish and big game, Stratton, Eustis and Flagstaff, the centers of the Dead River region, are growing in importance yearly and sportsmen find thereabouts a happy hunting and fishing ground unexcelled.

The easiest way to reach Stratton is via the Sandy River & Rangeley Lakes railroad to Bigelow or Green's Farm in summer, thence by team or stage, a delightful drive of seven miles. Here the sportsman or tourist will find every modern comfort in the hotels, the Blanchard at Stratton and the Sargent at Eustis; autoists will find some of the finest roads in Maine, so acknowledged by the Glidden tourists who in 1906 came this way from Canada; health seekers will here discover 1500 feet above the sea a climate unsurpassed in summer and the nature student will revel in the gorgeous beauties of the scenery.

The village of Stratton is six miles from Eustis, the parent town, which was disastrously swept by fire five years ago but has valiantly recovered, and her prosperity is reflected in her new and modern homes, her fine stores and the optimism of her residents who take pride in the rapid and healthy growth of the place where a score of houses were built last year and where many more will be erected this year. Her schools are to be graded this year and a Village Improvement society will agitate for fire protection and other improvements. Her water supply from Mt Bigelow is probably unexcelled anywhere coming from boiling springs affording 100 pounds pressure to the square inch. The valuation of the town is over a quarter of a million and is rapidly increasing. Recently, at Eustis, was erected a $4000 summer bungalow by T. J. Rowlett of New York and there are rumors of other summer places going up if the railroad enters the village of Stratton.

From here a score of fishing camps can be reached and indeed, there is good trout fishing right in the village and all about it within easy walk in any around the region which was one of the best in Maine last season for total of game.

The Rangeleys are but twenty miles away over fine roads and through most enchanting mountain scenery. The Dead River, sluggishly moving towards the Kennebec, affords all along its 64 miles fine trout fishing. With her wealth of fish, game and timber this region is one of the most prosperous in the state and Stratton hopes to see herself trebled in size in ten years. The selectmen are Guy Sedgely, R. W.

STRATTON AND MOUNT BIGELOW.

Blanchard; town clerk, Guy Sedgely; treasurer, H. H. Landers; school superintendent, T. W. Brington, M. D. Through this region passed in 1775 Benedict Arnold's troops on their way to attack Quebec and there are many relics of where the weary soldiers camped. Major Bigelow is said to have climbed the mountain which bears his name and

McLain, Frank H. McLain and John S. Durrell. Charles Green was chosen the first president and Eugene E. McLain, superintendent. After the latter's death, six years ago, his son, Frank H., was elected treasurer and general manager and has since successfully carried on the work. The president is H. H. (Continued on Page 3.)

BLANCHARD AVENUE, STRATTON.

UNDER LOG PILE TO DEATH.

JOSEPH BOUTAR CAUGHT WHEN THE STAKES GAVE WAY.

Chester Walker, a Fellow Worker, Went Through Experience Unhurt—Men Were on Log Landing Near Laves Camp of Berlin Mills Company.

Joseph Boutar of Stratton, aged about 38 years, was instantly killed Tuesday morning by the sudden breaking out of a log landing near Laves camp of the Berlin Mills company, in the north part of Redington township.

The unfortunate man was working with Chester Walker of Phillips on top of a pile of logs which had been landed beside the right branch of the lumber railroad above Greene's Farm, the landing being about four miles above Greene's Farm near Laves camp and one of the upper landings. The two men were carrying a skid that weighed 300 pounds or more and dropped it against the big stakes driven upright, called by lumbermen "gill pokes," against which the logs are piled. The stakes gave way, the heavy logs suddenly began to roll and both men went down with them.

Walker because of marvelous agility or wonderful luck, or a fortunate combination of the two managed to keep on top of the rolling mass and escaped with nothing more serious than a severe fright. Boutar was caught by the heavy logs and his life was almost instantly crushed out. The accident happened at 8.45 o'clock Tuesday morning and Mr. W. E. Laves was on the pile next to that on which Boutar and Walker were working. He witnessed the fatality, but of course was powerless to render any assistance to the doomed man.

Coroner Charles F. Chandler was summoned and the Berlin Mills Co. engaged a special train to convey him to the scene of the accident. In the meantime Boutar's body was removed from beneath the logs and conveyed to Greene's Farm where Coroner Chandler upon his arrival examined it. He found the man's skull crushed like an eggshell and the bones of the face broken in. He deemed an inquest unnecessary and authorized Boutar's brother-in-law, Joseph Mayo, who had come there for the purpose to remove the body.

Stratton. Mr. Chandler then visited the scene of the accident, returning later by a special train to Phillips. Boutar was about 38 years of age and a woodsman of much experience. He is well known among the lumbermen in the vicinity of Stratton. He is survived by a widow and two children, a son and a daughter.

Chester Walker, who made such a fortunate escape, is a resident of Phillips and is well known here. He had been at work at the landings but a few days and is said to have had but little experience of the task he was helping to perform, that of making the landings ready to be broken out.

FOURTH OF JULY.

Proposed to Celebrate the Day in Phillips in Fitting Manner.

It is proposed to celebrate the "Glorious Fourth" in Phillips this year in a manner suitable to the anniversary of our country's declaration of independence. There will be, if the plans proposed are carried out, public speaking, athletic games, music, horse racing, dancing and other diversities.

Phillips has a wide reputation for its celebrations and it is proposed to make this year's event superior to any similar attempt of the past. It is suggested that a harness meeting be arranged and suitable purses offered to guarantee a good list of entries, horses that will furnish good racing. Then the proposed Phillips baseball team, which will probably be a reality, could arrange for a game with some strong outside team. Another sport suggested is a game of basket ball. This sport has proven very popular in this section and while usually played indoors is fully as interesting and exciting when the contest occurs out of doors and is often played in that way.

The matter is being talked up around town and the project seems to be meeting with the general approval which will culminate in a Fourth of July celebration that will be a gala event.

East Madrid.

Mrs. Abbie Austin and her grandchild, Hazel Austin, have returned to Auburn where Miss Hazel will attend school.

Clark McKeene of Phillips was in town Saturday. Chapin Mardin is working for N. D. Wing.

Mrs. Cora Wheeler has been rather poorly of late, but is gaining at this writing.

Berry Mills.

Laroy F. Wilbur, who moved his family to Livermore Falls last Fall, is to move back to their stand at Berry Mills and he is to work for Hon. D. W. Berry.

Hot Stove—Cool Kitchen

How do you expect to endure the broiling days of summer if you prepare all the food over a glowing coal fire?

You need a "New Perfection" Oil Stove that will do the cooking without cooking the cook. It concentrates plenty of heat under the pot and diffuses little or none through the room. Therefore, when working with the

the kitchen actually seems as comfortable as you could wish it to be.

This, in itself, is wonderful, but, more than that, the "New Perfection" Oil Stove does perfectly everything that any stove can do. It is an ideal all-round cook-stove. Made in three sizes, and fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp

a substantial, strongly made and handsome lamp. Burns for hours with a strong, mellow light. Just what you need for evening reading or to light the dining-room. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Rev. M. S. Hutchins in beginning his sermon preached at the Union church on Sunday morning, said were he a poet he would surely speak in poet's language of the beauty and the gladness of the springtime. The springtime has a message for us in its awakening life, in the spirit of joy which attends its coming. If a text is needed to present the message we may find it in the buds of the trees, in the Bible of nature, which is God's own book. Yet if we want other text in Matt. xxiv, 32, we may read, "Now learn a parable of the fig tree; when his branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh."

The writer of the apocalypse in telling of the joy and the entrancing conditions of the future heaven says, "There shall be no night there." Had he lived in a climate where he had known some of the terrors of the frozen winter he would have said "there shall be no winter there." Winter is associated in our thought with much that is cold, hard, deathlike. It is a time of apparent death. To us it seems often a symbol of death, of gloom and dreariness. Longfellow has made the Indian who dwelt here before us say, "O the long and dreary winter."

In the darkness of the winter we long for the beautiful springtime the upspringing verdure of new life. We do well to look also for springtime in our hearts which shall open our eyes to the beauty about us. Let us not be like the farmer's boy who has perchance, spent all his years upon the hillsides, not realizing that in the ever present hills, in the valleys stretching below, on the winding river, in the ever changing sky there are spread before him

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good;" and Doctor Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve it is unequalled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equalled.

scenes of such wondrous beauty that well might he praise God for their gift. Some day when his eyes have been opened, perhaps by months lived in the city, perhaps by acquaintance with literature, perhaps by the words of a summer resident he will know that the familiar landscape is eloquent with beauty.

There is another use for the springtime besides satisfying the love for beauty which God has implanted in every heart. It is near the springs of life and has attendant lessons for which we will do well to look. The springtime speaks of God. When we contrast the winter with its seeming death which we know to be a needed rest time, with the swelling bud and opening leaf, with the near-coming flower it speaks to us of God, of design, of reason at work in nature. Within the flower are the different parts harmoniously adjusted to one another, each doing the work for which it was planned; without, in the soil and the air, is all that is necessary to foster the growth and perfect the beauty of the bloom. It all speaks of the wisdom and power of God. It tells, too, of the beauty-loving mind of God.

One lay dying at her home in Lewiston. Around her were many flowers sent by friends who knew her great love for them, sent by friends through out New England, some even from the west. "I love flowers" said she, "because they tell me of my Father that he has an esthetic nature, it tells me that he loves and creates beauty." The flowers to her were eloquent of God.

The springtime tells of God's way of working. If I had time, had time and the desire to watch and to study the flowers in their unfolding, they would bring to me better than the most eloquent sermon, better than the most exact scientific statement, the lesson of God's way of working. The text is in the bud. Its gradual unfolding shows his law of growth and advancement. The history of the universe shows the same law of gradual growth and development. Looking far back through ancient eras, we see the time when all the material universe was a vast nebulous mass. As age after age passed on solidly and shape have been acquired, the earth and all the heavenly bodies are advancing to the place that in the thought of God they were to fill. That which was once a vaporous mass is covered with varied life and ministers to the needs of man. If our spirits are attuned to read the future we see advancement toward one far off event to which the whole creation moves. There is beauty in the world where there is perfect, harmony between God and his creations. All life is an unfolding. We see it in the working out of the plan of the universe in the unfolding of the bud, in all physical life. It is true also in the spiritual life. Jesus said "Consider the lilies how they grow." We are longing, working, hoping for beauty and strength of character. It will come by growth. Sometimes our endeavors seem like the proverbial standing in a basket and raising ourselves by lifting on the handles. "Consider the lilies." They cannot lift themselves into sudden bloom. But they put themselves in harmony with the conditions about them that make for growth. The life that is in them lays hold upon the proper elements of soil and of air. The soil holds many nourishing elements, the air has besides other things the mysterious life sustaining property which we still understand so imperfectly. The lilies gain the needed substance for growth through being in harmony with these.

For growth in character no fierce struggle is needed, just keep in harmony with the necessary conditions and air inherent something, some God given quality, will seize upon those things that develop characters. The plant as I have said draws nourishment from soil and air for the growth of character I would compare duties to the soil. Everything else is comprised in love which like an atmosphere must envelope all the life. In duties well met and in love which enwraps the soul and is given without stint or measure shall we find all that is necessary for the growth and development of character.

There is a difference between spirituality and morality. Morality may indeed hold us to good deeds and actions. But mere goodness, mere morality falls short of what is required. A sculptor may carve from marble a most beautiful image or statue of a man. But a weak ignorant baby is nearer a man than the most beautiful statue that sculptor ever chiseled. If abiding in proper conditions, he will become a man. Doing steadfastly one's duty, basking in love, the character will grow until a finer blessing than is ever awarded mere morality has been given.

A writer in a recent issue of one of the magazines has asked with a note of sadness that indicated his belief if Christianity is on the decline. In New York City, he tells us, there are less churches and less church communicants than formerly. He proves in his way that Christianity is on the decline. He speaks of the absurdity of a man like John D. Rockefeller who is able to grapple with large business problems and lead the thought of many, sitting in the little church which he attends, and giving his time to something of such small importance as that to which he listens. Yet all the time between the lines you read that Christianity is a living force, that New York is the better because of it.

The advance of God's work may be likened to an ascending spiral. In part of the circle of the spiral you know the motion is advance. In the scenic railways, at one point of the track there is a rapid fall, but it is that momentum may be gained for a higher ascent. Amid the snows and frosts of winter nature is resting that the beautiful work of summer may be done. God is still at work in the world, and as the thawing rivers echo back the song of their release the springtime tells us that God's work shall not fail.

A Good Thing and Nothing to Pay.

Just see what Dr. Greene offers to do for all weak and suffering people. He is the most successful living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. His unparalleled offer to consult with anyone, free of charge, by letter correspondence is doing wonderful good. If you have any complaint which you do not thoroughly understand, and which you would like cured, write the Doctor a letter stating just how you feel and what symptoms trouble you. He will answer it, giving a complete description of your case, explaining the meaning of every symptom, and telling how you can surely get well and strong. He gives most careful attention to each letter, and explains your case so thoroughly that you understand exactly what ails you. All this costs you nothing, you have no doctor's fees to pay, and you don't have to leave your home. The Doctor makes a specialty of treating patients through letter correspondence, and they nearly always get well. He is the discoverer of that wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervous Blood and Nerve Remedy. Write to him at his office, 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., and you will undoubtedly be made strong.

A CHINESE DENTIST.

His Simple Way of Patching a Gap In a Patient's Teeth.

How crude is the dentistry of the humber inhabitants of modern China is disclosed by the Rev. John MacGowan in the following bit of description published in the North China Daily News: "Right in front of us on the street doctor's table is a small heap of teeth, not manufactured by any cunning workman, but by the subtle alchemy of nature. They are of all sizes and conditions. There are huge molars that have done yeoman service in the past and even teeth strong and determined looking and worn, as though they had failed in the battle of life and had come here to end their days. They were all marked and discolored with the signs and symbols of the wear and tear they had gone through. They were a grewsome sight to look upon, and I wondered much how such a curious collection could have been gathered together. 'Where did you get these from?' I asked the doctor, pointing to the heap, which, however, I was careful not to touch.

"Oh, I bought them!" he replied. "When a man has to part with a tooth," he continued, "he does not throw it away. He brings it to me, and I buy it for a few cash, for he knows that in my profession it will come in handy some time or other." Just as he was speaking a patient came up to him. On being asked what he wanted he replied simply by opening his mouth to the very widest extent. It was a huge cavern and reminded one of the entrance to the Thames tunnel. It was seen that his four upper front teeth were wanting, having been knocked out by a fall from a wall, and he was anxious to know if the doctor could supply their places with new ones.

"Of course I can," he promptly replied, and, measuring the cavity in the jaw, he carefully and with practiced eye selected from the heap the four teeth that would exactly fill it. He then drilled a hole in them longitudinally and inserted a bit of coarse iron wire to bind them to each other. The ends of the wire were next inserted in holes that were carefully drilled into the teeth on each side of the cavity, and at once the chasm disappeared, and the crowd that had been looking on with critical eyes declared that his mouth looked as natural as though the new ones were those with which kind nature had originally supplied him."

His Mother Was First.

Several years ago while at Newport News, Va., the writer was in the custom house, conversing with Captain J. E. B. Stuart, son of the intrepid Confederate cavalry leader. There was also present the captain of a coast-wise steamer transacting business with Captain Stuart, who was collector of the port, when a messenger came in and said:

"Your mother telephones from Norfolk, Captain Stuart, requesting you to come to the phone."

"Excuse me, gentlemen," said Captain Stuart as he hastily arose from his official position.

"I have no time to wait here," gruffly and impatiently exclaimed the captain of the steamer.

"My mother is calling me," quietly said Captain Stuart as he half turned around.

"But I am here on business, and it is your official business to attend to me, and attend to me now," was the loud and angry reply.

"I can resign my official position in a minute," replied Captain Stuart, "but I can never resign my mother. My mother is calling me, and she shall not wait nor call in vain."—Los Angeles Times.

What He Did Object To.

The author of "Kings of the Hunting Field" says that at a certain English church many years ago while the clergyman was reading prayers a man walked in, shouted, "I've got 'un!" and immediately withdrew. He had sounded a well known call. Every farmer and laborer who possessed a gun soon followed him and in an hour or two brought to the village inn the fox they had shot. Spirituality was in those days at a very low ebb, and some clergymen cared more for sport than for the example they set to their flocks. Bishops tried to discountenance hunting as a clerical pastime, but the law did not enable them to remove the offenders from their livings. Dr. Phillips, bishop of Exeter, who called to account several sporting clergymen in his diocese, met one of them at a friend's house.

"I am told, my lord, that you object to my hunting," said the clergyman.

"Dear me, who could have told you so?" answered the bishop. "What I object to is that you should ever do anything else."

employment to about 60 people. The plant covers three-quarters of a 13 acre plot and uses 2,000 cords of birch annually. It is modern throughout and consists of a main building 130x30 of which over one half is two storied, enameling mill 60x25, sawmill with capacity of 25 cords daily, eight storage sheds 325x10 each. Ample equipped with power the plant supplies the dynamos of the Stratton Electric Light Co. An automatic sprinkler system and fire pumps furnish protection. The company, composed mostly of local men, holds 4500 acres of timberland which has trebled in value and has earned from 15 to 20 percent yearly, and for the purpose of enlarging the scope of their business has offered a limited number of stock at $100 par value which are being rapidly taken up, on the basis of the success of the enterprise from its start. Stratton is naturally proud of the factory which under the competent management of Supt. McLain has made the village what it is today.

Allen Blanchard.

The grand old man of Eustis town and among the founders of the village of Stratton where he came about 45 years ago from Kingfield, his native town, is Allen Blanchard, a man whose sturdy faith in the village and her future never wavered and who by enterprise and encouragement by financial investments was the primal cause of the present growth of Stratton. Over 40 years ago Mr. Blanchard built the original Hotel Blanchard and engaged extensively in lumbering, building houses for the laborers and encouraging a spirit of thrift and progress. After disposing of the hotel to his son, O. Blanchard, he became interested in the promotion of the Stratton Manufacturing Co., in which were also associated his three sons, R. W., O., and B. E. Blanchard, with others. Coincident with the starting of this factory he engaged with his son, R. W., in erecting homes and Blanchard Avenue is named in his honor of a sturdy type of Maine men. Mr. Blanchard, still energetic and active, is a man whom his fellow townsmen hold in highest respect.

Royal W. Blanchard.

Among the young business men whose energy and business enterprise have promoted the development and growth of the village of Stratton is Royal W. Blanchard, who with his father Allen Blanchard, is extensively interested in real estate, lumbering and insurance. On Blanchard Avenue have been built a dozen or more residences by Mr. Blanchard who, like his father, believes thoroughly in Stratton as a coming village. He was one of the promoters of the Stratton Manufacturing company and has a large fire insurance business representing The Home, Aetna and Hartford companies. He served as town clerk 13 years and is on the board of selectmen, and is a justice of the peace. Born in Stratton, Mr. Blanchard represents the type of active, progressive young men whose influence is potent in the up building of their native town.

O. Blanchard.

Prominent among the sons of Eustis whose business careers have been factors in the best life of the town is O. Blanchard, one of the leading citizens of the town, who has for years been identified with its business and municipal affairs. He, with his brothers R. W. and B. E. own large timber tracts in this vicinity and conduct extensive operations. He was for 20 years proprietor of Hotel Blanchard, and was also engaged in trading and in 1902 purchased the Stratton Water Co. plant. Mr. Blanchard was once president of the Stratton Mfg. Co., is director of the Stratton Electric Light Co., and is variously connected with the business development of the village. Born in Stratton, he has served in town offices and has largely contributed of his time and endeavor towards the advancement of the town and village where he occupies one of the handsomest residences in the county.

the Electric Light plant, Water works system and with every enterprise of public importance. Years ago he bought the Alder stream township and owns 1200 acres of timber on the south branch of Dead river. Mr. Dudley was born in Kingfield.

T. W. Brimigeon, M. D.

A well known physician and surgeon whose practice extends over a wide territory in the Dead River region in a country where the physician is called upon for many sacrifices in long drives is Dr. T. W. Brimigeon, who has been located in Stratton for the past 13 years, was born in Madrid, was graduated in the Milwaukee Medical School of Wisconsin, and returning to Maine began practice with Dr. Bennett in New Portland, but was soon attracted by the growth of Stratton and moved here the same year. Dr. Brimigeon takes a deep interest in the schools and is present superintendent of schools while he is also prominent in all that tends toward the advancement of Stratton and the town of Eustis.

Stratton Electric Light Co.

With the formation 4 years ago of the Stratton Electric Light Co. the village took its place in the line of 20th Century communities. The gentlemen behind the company were actuated by the spirit of progressiveness and public benefit, and there are in the village over 700 lights, the streets are well lighted and the homes are generally provided with them. The cost is per year $2.25 for 16 candle power, $1.50 for eight and $1 for four candle power, flat rate. The company is furnished power for its own engine by the Stratton Mfg. Co. and its dynamo has a 900 light capacity. The present officers are: E. J. Voter, president; W. A. Lee, secretary and treasurer. The plant is under the charge of W. A. Lee, a native of Livermore Falls, who came from New Vineyard with the Messrs. McLain and who had charge of the construction of the Stratton Mfg. Co.'s plant in which he also occupies the position of foreman. Mr. Lee's management of the electric light plant is conducted on a liberal plan and is appreciated by the Stratton public.

H. H. Landers, Postmaster.

The name of Landers has been associated for a long period in the minds of the people of Eustis and Stratton village with progressive ideas in business and public affairs. For a quarter of a century the trading center founded by Charles Green, for 10 years known as Green & Landers, and for the past 3 years as H. H. Landers, has sustained its reputation for reliability. Mr. Landers has the largest business block in town containing Landers hall, covering a spacious area and is completely stocked with a varied line of general groceries, dry and fancy goods, clothing, boots, shoes, etc., agricultural implements, hardware, furniture and an assortment of seasonable goods. Mr. Landers is also postmaster and fills the office with credit and courteousness. A native of Kingfield, he has resided here 13 years, is president of the Stratton Mfg. Co., director in the Stratton Electric Light Co., and is highly esteemed by his fellow townsmen.

Guy Sedgley, General Groceries.

Among the enterprising young business men who is prominent politically is Guy Sedgley, proprietor of the large general store originally started by R. W. Blanchard and purchased two years ago by W. and G. Sedgley, and a year ago taken over by the present proprietor. Everything found in an up to date general store is carried in large quantities; groceries, provisions, dry goods, boots, shoes and clothing, fruits, photographs besides a very complete line of wall papers, window shades, paints, oils, etc., agricultural implements and even caskets may be purchased here. Mr. Sedgley is local manager of the Maine Tel. Co., is chairman of board of selectmen, was town clerk two years, and is serving his third year as assessor. Mr. Sedgley was clerk for R. W. Blanchard several years and by self reliance, enterprise and energy pushed to the forefront. He is a native of Flagstaff and has resided in Stratton since the boom began.

M. H. Wyman, Eustis.

Occupying one of the finest business blocks in town, modern in appointments and reflecting the revival of the town since the great fire in 1903, Mr. M. H. Wyman of Eustis, is one of the prominent and enterprising citizens who has done much to revive confidence and restore the town to its former place. Mr. Wyman's three story block is 36x40 with store house 22x40 and is one of the best stocked general stores in the

J. P. Dudley.

The original merchant and pioneer lumber operator of Stratton whose business career covers nearly half a century, 40 years of which has been devoted to lumbering, is J. P. Dudley a man whose work and influence led to the development of Stratton. In 1862 Mr. Dudley built the first store, was selectman for 25 years, was prominent in the town's incorporation in 1870, built the first dam on Stratton brook and assisted in constructing about all the dams on the north branch of Dead river and Alder stream and in fact was the leading citizen whose enterprise and money was devoted to the up building of the whole town. Mr. Dudley lived at Eustis 16 years and removed to Stratton 11 years ago. He was a prim mover in the organization of the Stratton Mfg. Co.

county. It is a central trading place for this section and contains the post office which is in charge of Miss Elsie A. Wyman, his daughter, succeeding her father who acceptably filled the office till last year since 1899. Besides a large general business, Mr. Wyman is extensively employed in lumbering under the name of Sargent & Wyman, who own several hundred acres in this Second District Republican Convention.

The Second District Republican convention will be held in City hall, Lewiston, Maine, Wednesday, May 12th, 1908, at 1.30 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress to be voted for at the September election; electing two district delegates and two alternates to attend the National Republican convention at Chicago, June 16, 1908; electing a district committee; and transacting any other business that may properly come before it.

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city, town and plantation will be entitled to one delegate, and for each 75 votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1904, an additional delegate, and for a fraction of 40 votes in excess of 75, an additional delegate. Vacancies in the delegation of any city, town or plantation can only be filled by a resident of the county in which the vacancy exists.

The District committee will be in session in the reception room of the hall at 11 o'clock a. m. on the morning of the convention, for the purpose of receiving the credentials of the delegates. Delegates in order to be eligible to participate in the convention must be elected subsequent to the date of the call for this convention.

The chairman of the various delegations are requested to forward a full list of the delegates and alternates to the secretary of the district committee, H. H. Hastings, Bethel, Maine, as soon as they are chosen.

Per order Republican District committee.

For County Commissioner.

SALEM, April 27, 1908.

To the Editor of MAINE WOODSMAN:

I wish to announce to the Republican voters of Franklin County, through the columns of your paper, that I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for County commissioner.

Respectfully yours,
EDGAR WILLS.

Mr. Edgar Wills.

Mr. Edgar Wills of Salem, who has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination as County commissioner, was born in Salem, Me., and is one of Franklin County's most prosperous farmers and is highly respected by all who know him. Mr. Wills has held many offices of trust and respect in his native town, having served for the past 17 years as one of the selectmen and for seven years of that time as chairman of the board. This position he now holds, and has been town clerk since 1892. He has also served the town four years as town treasurer and as a member of the schoolboard for the past six years. He is also a Justice of the Peace and has held that office for the past 12 years. Thus we have in Mr. Wills a man acquainted with all kinds of business and well qualified to fill the position he has asked for.

Mr. Wills is an admirer of good stock and has some of the best blooded Jersey stock to be found in the county, and also owns one of the best French Coach stallions in Maine. Mr. Wills is a man strictly honest in his dealings, believing honesty to be the best policy. He is a straight temperance man and an active worker in the church to which he belongs, and the people of Franklin County will make no mistake if they make him their next county commissioner.

J. Sherman Hoar and F. H. Hamm were in Phillips one day last week.

The following item clipped from the Malden Evening News will be read with sorrow by many: "Mrs. Alice Marsh, wife of Prof. Dwight Porter of Technology passed away on Saturday at her home, 149 Hawthorne street, after a long illness. Mrs. Porter was born in Hartford and was the daughter of George Marsh, for many years city engineer of the Connecticut capital. She resided in Hartford until her marriage to Prof. Porter when they came to Malden to live some 25 years ago. The deceased also leaves four children, Mrs. Charles B. Waterman, Annie A., Helen M. and James M., and a brother George E. Marsh of Portland, Conn. Mrs. Porter was a member of the First Congregational church and was greatly beloved by a wide circle of friends. The funeral will be at the Porter residence tomorrow at 2 o'clock." Prof. Porter owns a cottage on the shore of Rangeley Lake and with his family has for several seasons spent the summer months here.

An Insidious Dnger.

One of the worst features of kidney trouble is that it is an insidious disease and before the victim realizes his danger he may have a fatal malady. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy at the first sign of trouble as it corrects irregularities and prevents Bright's disease and diabetes. W. A. D. Cragin, Phillips.

Music hall is being equipped with fire escapes, a fact that will be learned with satisfaction by all who attend gatherings there. Three escapes are being installed and provide exits from each side of both the floor and balcony of the hall and the stage in addition to the regular stairways and doors.

Mrs. Hiram Titcomb who has been ill with pneumonia, passed away Friday, April 24, and funeral services were held from the Congregational church, Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Clapp officiating. Her aged mother and five surviving children have the sympathy of many friends.

Miss Annie Woods McLeary of the Conservatory of Music, Boston, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McLeary.

The annual fair was held by the young ladies of the Normal school Saturday afternoon and evening at Normal hall, and was largely patronized. A musical entertainment was given in the evening and was a credit to those participating.

Roads in the outlying districts have been unusually bad since the frost began leaving the ground, which froze last winter much deeper than it commonly does.

Many automobiles were out Sunday and although the roads outside the village proper were not in condition for pleasure riding, yet the auto drivers found much pleasure in traversing the village streets. The strip of improved road on Main street was in excellent condition, and was a striking example of the advantages of permanent highways.

A very pleasant Easter service was enjoyed at the Red schoolhouse April 19. The exercises consisted of recitations, dialogues and singing. Mr. Ranger, we are sorry to say, was unable to be present on account of sickness.

Ralph Ellsworth has made and sold $10 worth of maple syrup, besides supplying his own table. Some sparks of fire caught from where he was boiling and set fire to the dry grass, but was very soon under control.

Mrs. Niles has been having her house painted.

Stratton.

Eustis Republicans in caucus selected Postmaster H. H. Landers as delegate to the district convention. He was uninstructed. Hon. H. M. Sewall who frequently visits this section has many warm friends in the Dead River region.

With the going out of the frost an enormous shole has been made in the road a few miles this side of Flagstaff on the edge of Dead River which the County Commissioners who visited it recently decided is useless to repair permanently on account of the quicksands bottom and a new road will be built through a section of the woods in that locality while temporary repairs are made over the big fissure in the earth. O. Blanchard and Ed Grose have each purchased Jackson touring cars, Mr. Blanchard's arriving this week.

A peculiar horse trade is recorded in Eustis recently. On a certain day before April 1, M. H. Wyman, postmaster at Eustis, gave Mr. Daggett a check for $275 for a pair of horses which the latter said he had agreed to sell for $300 to a certain lumberman who, however, had not closed his bargain, and Daggett promised to send the horses to Mr. Wyman the following day. When Daggett got home he found that the original bargainman had called, left his check for $300 with Mrs. Daggett and departed for the woods 30 miles away with them. Mr. Wyman refuses to receive back his check for $275, claiming that he is the owner of the team and not the other party. Local would-be Solons are debating the question of legal ownership.

Miss Charlotte Whitney has returned after a few weeks' visit with friends in Kingfield and Madrid.

The village schools began April 27 with the same teachers as last term.

Jack Vipond has bought William Safford's house and moved there.

Mrs. Orland Reed is on the sick list. Joseph Fötter recently sold a nice three-years-old colt to Mr. Henry Henderson of Beachmont, Mass. He went as far as Kingfield with the colt.

Little Dorothy, the 6-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lovejoy, has been very ill with broncho pneumonia.

Death of Little Blanche Hinkley.

Blanche, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hinkley, died at the home of her parents, Thursday morning, April 23. She had been sick with whooping cough for about two weeks, but having taken a little cold, it soon developed into broncho-pneumonia, yet all that loving hands could do was done for the little one.

Funeral services were held at the house Saturday morning, April 25, Rev. M. S. Hutchins officiating, and the remains were interred in Evergreen cemetery. Among the floral offerings were potted plants, friends and neighbors; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hinkley; four dozen white carnations, Charles Bleau; two dozen white pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Hinkley, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hinkley; two dozen daybreak carnations, Mr. and Mrs. Hezekiah Hinkley, Ralph Hinkley; two dozen white carnations, Degree of Honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinkley have the sympathy of all in their recent bereavement.

Wilton.

Miss Lettie M. Ellis, who has been passing the winter in Florida, arrived in Wilton Saturday night and was the guest of her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ellis, over Sunday. She returned to her home in Weld Monday night.

Mr. F. J. Goodspeed was in Portland Friday and Saturday of last week.

Mrs. Elvira Paine still remains very sick.

Miss Julia Ellis and Pansy Snowman of Weld were in town Friday and attended the drama which was given in the Town hall Friday night.

Mr. Charles Richardson of Chester-ville was a recent caller in town.

Miss Susie Carver and Cora Wiggleworth spent Sunday in Farmington as guests of Miss Carver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carver.

Miss Effie Eustis was on the sick list a few days last week.

The many friends of Albert Carvill will be pleased to learn that he is on the gain.

Mr. I. C. Phillips of Auburn, superintendent of town schools in Wilton and Farmington, was in town Saturday.

Mr. D. F. Hartshorn was in Farmington last Monday.

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Phillips Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed; have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains—Backache, sideache, headache, early symptoms of kidney illness. Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

Mrs. A. H. Prince, of 122 Federal St. Portland, Me., says: "In the month of October, 1898, I gave for publication a statement recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. My husband had derived much benefit from their use when suffering a great deal from trouble with the kidneys. He got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at a drug store, corner of Middle and Free Sts., and used them according to directions. Since the time I gave this testimonial he has given Doan's Kidney Pills a more thorough test and has used them frequently on occasions when symptoms of kidney trouble became noticeable and they have never failed to give him prompt relief. Although it is six years since we recommended Doan's Kidney Pills we have never had any reason to change our opinion."

THE GENTLE ALLIGATOR.

Getting Him Out Into the Open For the Camera Man.

I have seen a barefoot boy when the alligator refused to respond to his call wade in the mud to his waist, explore with his toes till he felt the wriggle of the gator beneath them, then worry him to the surface, grab him by the nose before he could open his jaws and tow the creature ashore to be photographed. When an alligator that we were hunting crawled into his cave I held a noosed rope over his mouth while the boy poked a stick through the mud until it hit the creature in his hiding place, and soon I had him snared, ready to be dragged out on the prairie and tied, to be kept till the camera man was ready for him; then we turned the reptile loose on a bit of prairie, and the boy and I, armed with sticks, headed him off when he tried to escape, while the camera man, with his head in the hood of his instrument, followed the creature about, seeking for evidence in the case of reason versus instinct. When the camera man was through with him the alligator was set free, a final shot being taken at him as he walked off. Our hunter boys could never be made to comprehend our reasons for restoring to the creatures their freedom. They understood the photographing, but when this was done why not collect a dollar for the reptile's hide? Their manner implied that to this question no sane answer was possible.—A. W. Dimock in Harper's Magazine.

ECONOMY IN ITALY.

The Roman Season the Only Time When Real Luxury is the Rule.

During the greater part of the year we have only the servants that are necessary—my husband's valet, one butler, the porter who stands at the entrance to the palace and a general utility country boy who in the afternoon puts on a livery and acts as footman. The women servants are a cook, a scullery maid, a laundress and two maids besides my own personal one. This list is not as extravagant as the same would be in America.

Wages are nothing by comparison. One can get a good lady's maid for $10 a month, a competent butler for $10, a cook for $10, a chambermaid for $6. Their fare would seem coarse to the spoiled servant of America, consisting, as it does, chiefly of bread, soup, macaroni and fruit, with tea and coffee of an inferior grade and fresh meat once a week. We spend nothing that we can possibly help until the Roman season. Then we have enough surplus to get an additional number of maids and a long row of footmen (these for the most part young women and men from the village of our own estate), and both in our country villa and in our Roman palace we open all the rooms that for eight months have been closed and for four months live in luxury.—An Expatriate in Everybody's Magazine.

Ancient Enamels.

It is certain that glazes having the composition of good enamels were manufactured at a very early date. Excellent glazes are still preserved, and some of the bricks which have been found among the ruins of Babylon have been ascribed to the seventh or eighth century B. C. The glaze on the Babylonian bricks was found upon examination to have a base of soda glass, or silicate of sodium. Glazes of a similar character were also manufactured by the Egyptians as early as the sixth dynasty. There can be little doubt that the Greeks and Etruscans were also acquainted with the art of enameling.—New York American.

The Living Present.

He that hath so many causes of joy, and so great, is very much in love with sorrow and peevishness who loses all these pleasures and chooses to sit down upon his little handful of thorns. Enjoy the blessings of this day if God sends them, and the evils it bear patiently and sweetly, for this day only is ours. We are dead to yesterday, and we are not yet born to the morrow. But if we look abroad and bring into one day's thoughts the evil of many, certain and uncertain, what will be and what will never be, our load will be as intolerable as it is unreasonable.—Jeremy Taylor.

section and Freeman. Mr. Wyman was born in Dead River and has been 30 years a leading business man, has served as selectman, road surveyor and is a member of the Odd Fellows and K. of P.

Durrell & Wing, Gen'l Grocers.

Located in the K. of P. block, the hustling young firm of Durrell & Wing occupying spacious quarters and carrying a large general line of groceries, provisions, meats, clothing, boots, shoes, etc., is abreast of the times and reflect the spirit of Stratton village. The main store is 50x25 with a store room 40x25, the whole filled with a fresh stock of variety and excellence selected with care and competency, both partners having had years of experience in the business before forming partnership. For years the firm was known as Jones, Durrell & Wing and developed a large trade which the new firm, organized two years ago, has not only held but increased. Courteous treatment of patrons, honest goods and prices contribute towards the success being recorded. Both Messrs. Durrell and Wing have been honored by municipal offices, Mr. Durrell serving one year as town clerk and Mr. Wing as chairman of the board of selectmen for two terms. Mr. Durrell is a native of New Sharon and Mr. Wing of Flagstaff and since locating in Stratton both have become prominently identified with the business and municipal life of the village.

W. E. Hanscom.

A gentleman whose enterprise has advanced him among the business men of Stratton is William E. Hanscom who for the past 3 years has been engaged in the barber and barber supply business, sporting goods, jewelry, etc., besides running a pool room and is largely engaged in fire and life and accident insurance business, representing in fire insurance the Pine Tree State, Homestead Mutual, Hancock Mutual, Equitable; in life the Mutual Life, of New York, and in accident the Maryland Casualty and the National. Mr. Hanscom is also one of the best known horse trainers and owners in Northern Franklin county owning at present the handsome stallion, Raffia Wilkes, and Joe Hilton.

Raffia Wilkes is one of Maine's best bred stallions, a rich chestnut with silver mane and tail. He is out of a thoroughbred Morgan mare, was sired by Johnnie Wilkes, record 2.19 1-4 trot, 2.17 1-4 pace, called the Bingen of Maine, and will stand at Stratton season of 1908 for $15 to warrant. Raffia Wilkes is half brother to Gene D. 2.12 1-4 (fastest Maine bred mare,) Decima Dean 2.14 1-4, Rex Wilkes 2.15 1-4 and several other speedy ones. Mr. Hanscom contemplates building this summer a business block 60x20, two stories high for his business in the village one feature of which will be a line of sportsmen's goods. Born in Portland, Mr. Hanscom was for 13 years in the gentlemen's furnishing goods business in Eustis, removing here 3 years ago.

A. L. Porter.

Occupying one of the neatest stores in the village which he built a few years ago A. L. Porter has become one of the progressive business men of Stratton where he conducts a modern barber shop and in connection has a prosperous business in cigars, tobaccos, pipes and general smoker's articles besides carrying ice cream sodas and soft drinks together with a select line of canned goods and a variety of saleable articles. Coming here a stranger Mr. Porter by conscientious catering to the wants of customers has built up a prosperous trade and has made his store a central trading place for the young men of the village where they are always sure of a square deal and courteous treatment.

F. L. Porter, Eustis.

A prominent resident and business man of Eustis is F. L. Porter who has been a jeweler here 30 years and an extensive land owner and who is now erecting a fine residence in the Spring Grove district. For 13 years he was town clerk and prominent in town affairs. He is a native of Salem, but has lived in Eustis 30 years and with his brother, Charles N., owned large farms. Mr. Porter is one of the town's leading citizens and is prominent in all that is for the advancement of Eustis.

A. M. Jones.

Prominently identified with the growth of Stratton village for the past 20 years as a business man in and all that tends toward her upbuilding, A. M. Jones now a prominent lumber operator representing the S. D. Warren & Co., of Westbrook, is among the leading and progressive men of the hour of this section. Mr. Jones had previously been engaged in trade, disposing of his interest to Durrell & Wing two years ago. Mr. Jones was a prime mover in the building of the excellent system of water works, was the first president of the Stratton Water Co., and was chairman of the board of selectmen several terms. For several years Mr. Jones was fish and game warden in this section and was influential in securing from the state hatchery bountiful supplies of fish fry for the lakes and ponds in this vicinity as well as in securing that protection which has made this one of the best fish and game sections in Maine. Mr. Jones has a set of fine sporting camps at Mt. Bigelow pond which this year is to become organized into a sportsmen's association. Born in Eustis and always loyal to the interests of the town, Mr. Jones since locating in Stratton village has been a leading factor in its progress.

Hotel Blanchard, Stratton.

The Hotel Blanchard is one of the finest of the modern hotels to be found in the sporting regions anywhere, is practically new and has all modern conveniences, electric lights, baths, furnace heat, open plumbing, hardwood floors and there is running Lithia water throughout the house. E. H. Grose, the proprietor, has entirely transformed the hotel by building of an addition, 52x36. The table is excellent and all the appointments first-class making it a delightful place to stay while in the Dead River region. A fine auto delivery and auto garage are features, a large touring car being at the disposal of guests, and the points of touring are many. Special rates are given parties who remain a week or over. The scenery all about is unsurpassed in Maine, the altitude among the state's highest mountains rendering the climate perfect in summer. Mr. Grose has built up a big angler's and tourist trade which is deserved. A circular giving details will be mailed on request.

A. P. Wing, Flagstaff.

A reliable trading center for the past 60 years, the business owned by A. P. Wing and purchased, three years ago of G. H. Lincoln, has been greatly increased under his management and is one of the chief trading centers in this section of Dead river. The store has been greatly transformed since its purchase and a large general line of groceries, general provision, fresh and salt meats, and especially camp supplies are carried. Everything in a general store of the first-class order is here to be found and courteous treatment and honest prices and goods is the rule. Mr. Wing is a native of Flagstaff and takes a leading part in town affairs and it is largely to his efforts as chairman of the building committee of the Congregational society that the church is nearing completion and will be finished this summer. Mr. Wing took the matter of finishing the church up in a business like way and aroused a spirit among the people which caused the building to grow rapidly under his chairmanship. The church is one of the prettiest of the smaller edifices in this section and is a credit alike to the people of Flagstaff as well as to Mr. Wing whose work on the committee on building the people fully appreciate.

Butler & Savage, Flagstaff.

Located in Flagstaff, the center of a great game section, the establishment of Butler & Savage, general grocers, dealers in dry and fancy goods, boots, shoes, clothing and general sportsmen's supplies, which was opened in 1882 is a central trading place for the village and the numerous sporting camps, in this section of Dead river. A large business is done and since its inception the firm of Butler & Savage has been of the successful kind. It is composed of Messrs D. A. Butler and C. W. Savage. Mr. Butler is one of the of the pioneer natives and has always been prominent in business and town affairs, having held the office of first selectman several years. He was a pioneer California fortune seeker as well and his life is filled with varied and interesting experiences. Mr. Savage is a native of Eustis, but has resided at Flagstaff 25 years. Ten years ago he was appointed postmaster. The business management of the firm devolves largely upon him and it is a mark of his ability that it has continued to prosper.

"The Flagstaff," A. A. Eames, Prop.

Situated in the very heart of the fish and game section of the Dead River region at Flagstaff is "The Flagstaff," a popular hotel for sportsmen all around which lie numerous brooks and ponds teeming with trout and salmon and this is the favorite feeding ground for deer and even moose are frequently seen. A few miles distant are Spring Lake Camps where the square tail and lake trout abound. Flagstaff pond is one-half a mile from "The Flagstaff" and there is fine pickerel fishing there. Mr. Eames is a well known guide and knows how to serve his guests in hunting and fishing seasons. "The Flagstaff" is just the place to visit the coming angling season and you will find Mr. Eames a courteous, capable host who will show you how to fish and take care of you.

Prouty & Miller, Bigelow.

One of the largest lumbering plants in Franklin county is that of Prouty & Miller, located at Bigelow, whose general headquarters are at Newport, Vt., and who operate similar plants in Vermont and Canada with retail yards in Massachusetts. The plant covers 30 acres with a two story sawmill and annex in which is a 250 horse power engine generating electricity for the plant which is equipped with all necessary machinery for manufacturing 750,000 feet of long lumber weekly, besides a large amount of shingles, laths and clapboards. Besides there is a score of dwellings besides a large general store owned by this company. About 100 hands are employed in the operations in mill and woods. Mr. W. L. Brown, a native of Vermont, who has been with the company several years, has been local manager for the past six years and under his direction the plant has become very extensive and successful.

West Phillips.

G. L. Kempton is able to go to the barn on crutches and is gaining slowly after three weeks of confinement to the house on account of a fall on the ice and injury to the left leg below the knee. E. C. Crossman of Madrid made him a pleasant visit the first of this week.

Howard Toothaker came home Saturday night from Livermore Falls where he visited last week.

Bert Kempton has his wood nearly all split which he had sawed by Charles O. Dill's gasoline engine a short time ago.
